

Continuity and Change

Grade Three

- 3.1 Students describe the physical and human geography and use of maps, tables, graphs, photographs, and charts to organize information about people, places, and environments in a spatial context.
- 3.2 Students describe the American Indian nations in their local region long ago and in the recent past.
- 3.3 Students draw from historical and community resources to organize the sequence of local historical events and describe how each period of settlement left its mark on the land.
- 3.4 Students understand the role of rules and laws in our daily lives and the basic structure of the United States government.
- 3.5 Students demonstrate basic economic reasoning skills and an understanding of the economy of the local region.

3.1

Continuity and Change

Students describe the physical and human geography and use of maps, tables, graphs, photographs, and charts to organize information about people, places, and environments in a spatial context.

3.2

Continuity and Change

Students describe the American Indian nations in their local region long ago and in the recent past.

3.3

Continuity and Change

Students draw from historical and community resources to organize the sequence of local historical events and describe how each period of settlement left its mark on the land.

3.4

Continuity and Change

Students understand the role of rules and laws in our daily lives and the basic structure of the United States government.

3.5

Continuity and Change

Students demonstrate basic economic reasoning skills and an understanding of the economy of the local region.

3.1

Continuity and Change

Students describe the physical and human geography and use of maps, tables, graphs, photographs, and charts to organize information about people, places, and environments in a spatial context.

3.2

Continuity and Change

Students describe the American Indian nations in their local region long ago and in the recent past.

3.3

Continuity and Change

Students draw from historical and community resources to organize the sequence of local historical events and describe how each period of settlement left its mark on the land.

3.4

Continuity and Change

Students understand the role of rules and laws in our daily lives and the basic structure of the United States government.

3.5

Continuity and Change

Students demonstrate basic economic reasoning skills and an understanding of the economy of the local region.